Brief report of proceeding/sessions:

Background:

The theme of the CDE program was related to oral cancer considering that oral cancer has emerged as an alarming public health problem with increasing mortality rates all over the world. The high incidence of oral cancer in India is linked to habits of tobacco chewing and smoking. Oral Squamous Cell Carcinoma forms about 90% of all oral cancers. The malignancy is usually preceded by oral potentially malignant disorders like leukoplakia, erythroplakia, and oral submucous fibrosis.

Objectives of the Program:

The program intended to highlight the key aspect important for all the practitioners of Oral Health – be it in the clinic or in the community. The objectives of the program were to provide applicable knowledge on:

1. Overview of Preventive Oncology
2. Minimally Invasive Investigatory Procedure for Early Diagnosis of Suspicious Oral Mucosal Lesions
3. Treatment Outcomes of Non-invasive Early Interventions for Potentially Malignant Lesions
4. Community Based Programs for Oral Cancer Care

This Program made an attempt to unravel all preventable measures to tackle this deadly Oral Cancer. Lack of early screening methods have been highlighted as a significant challenge for the diagnosis and management of the disease. Therefore, implementation of newer screening and early detection approaches are of utmost importance which could reduce the morbidity and mortality associated.
